

DISASTER AND EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT CONTINUUM

Disaster and emergency management is comprised of four interdependent components as follows:

MITIGATION

To adapt to or reduce the risks of disasters in order to protect lives, property, the environment, and reduce economic disruption.

PREPAREDNESS

To be ready to respond to a disaster and manage its consequences through measures taken prior to an event

RESPONSE

To act during or immediately before or after a disaster to manage its consequences

RECOVERY

To repair or restore conditions to an acceptable level through measures taken after a disaster
